Master in Public Policy

Overview

In the two-year Master in Public Policy (MPP) course, students focus on research and analysis, so that they can be effective in implementing, evaluating, and managing policies and programmes.

The MPP curriculum draws from economics, political science, and public management. A key component of the course is the Policy Analysis Exercise, where students undertake a public policy or management study for a client in the public, private, or not-for-profit sector. Their role is to conduct primary research and carry out in-depth analysis relating to an actual problem faced by their client, in order to offer policy recommendations.

MPP 2020

Information is available for 68 graduates (97% of the cohort). Of the 68 graduates, 87% reported that they found employment. Of those who responded that they found employment, 18% indicated that they had returned to work for their previous employer, 22% reported that they found a new job in Singapore and 31% reported that they found a new job outside of Singapore.

Master in Public Administration

Overview

The one-year full-time Master in Public Administration (MPA) programme prepares students for senior management roles in the public sector. It provides an intensive, interdisciplinary course of study for professionals who wish to work on increasingly complex issues shaping national, regional and global policies and projects.

Over the course of the programme, students will be exposed to useful skills and knowledge used by researchers, public managers, leaders as well as policy practitioners. They can look forward to developing their national and international network and boost their leadership and management capabilities.

Be an LKY School Partner

If you are looking for high-calibre talent to fill your organisation's internship or full-time employment needs, our Career Services team can work with you to develop a campus recruitment strategy to raise the profile of your organisation at the LKY School and find the right talent.

Reach out to Asia's Policy Talents

Our graduates are passionate, policy-savvy individuals, offering global perspectives and solutions to drive your organisation forward. Some of them are young professionals with between two and five years of work experience in the public, private, or not-for-profit sectors. Others may be mid-careerists who have held a supervisory role and have at least six years of work experience.

Our Internship Programme

We encourage our students to explore internships with the public, not-for-profit and multilateral sectors (such as international organisations, development banks and UN agencies).

Under the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy Internship Programme (LIP), students may apply for funding to carry out unpaid internships at public, not-for-profit, and multilateral organisations.

Participating organisations from the mentioned sectors would usually provide an 8-week internship during the school's summer vacation (i.e. May to July). If your organisation is keen to explore internship collaborations under the LIP, please contact Career Services.
