

BENJAMIN TAY

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

PM Haze

Benjamin Tay is the executive director at PM Haze (People's movement to stop haze). He coordinates haze prevention programmes both locally and overseas. PM Haze's local advocacy programme include reaching out to businesses and consumers to adopt sustainable palm oil. PM Haze also works with the Indonesian community to develop and implement ecological restoration of degraded peatlands and sustainable development of community livelihoods.

Benjamin first got involved in transboundary haze advocacy in 2015, as he wanted people to go beyond adaptation strategies and find solutions to prevent transboundary haze. He holds a Master of Asia-Pacific Studies with Distinction from the Australian National University. Behind smoke and fires, there are issues of social justice and climate resilience. He aspires to develop research on the socio-cultural and historical perspectives of social justice and climate-related advocacy in the Southeast Asian region.

📅 SESSIONS

» HAZY PERCEPTIONS: IS MISINFORMATION MAKING PEOPLE SICK FROM THE HAZE?