The Institute of Policy Studies (IPS) was established in 1988 as a think-tank dedicated to fostering good governance in Singapore through strategic policy research and discussion. In 2008, it became an autonomous research centre of the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy at the National University of Singapore. IPS examines issues of critical national interest across a variety of fields, and studies the attitudes and aspirations of Singaporeans through surveys of public perception.

The Institute’s core mission is to:

- Analyse domestic public policy issues and challenges;
- Build bridges between thought leaders and engage diverse stakeholders to facilitate the exchange of views; and
- Communicate its research findings and recommendations to the wider public to generate greater awareness of policy issues through forums, publications, and mainstream and digital media.

In so doing, it hopes to boost the quality of engagement on national issues and encourage the emergence of better solutions to policy challenges.

COMPETENCIES

- Arts, Culture and Media
- Demography and Family
- Economics and Business
- Politics and Governance
- Society and Identity

NOTABLE INDIVIDUALS

IPS’ research agenda for the next few years sets out its research priorities on strategic policy areas where there is a critical need for more scholarship and research. It is advanced primarily through four research programmes:

- Managing the challenges of an ageing society
- Inequality and social mobility
- Managing diversities
- Governance of a city-state

IPS Social Lab – the Institute’s centre for social indicators research – tracks and evaluates the implications of demographic trends, evolving social attitudes and emerging socio-economic challenges facing Singapore. IPS also administers the S R Nathan Fellowship for the Study of Singapore, which aims to advance public understanding and discussion of issues of critical national interest.
IPS CORPORATE ASSOCIATES PROGRAMME

The IPS Corporate Associates (CA) Programme provides opportunities for CA members to keep abreast of and participate in discussions on major global developments, as well as engage with key policymakers on critical local issues that may impact their business environment. It is also a platform for Singapore’s corporate leaders to tap IPS’ wealth of research and multi-disciplinary analyses on domestic policy issues. By forging a bond with the business community, IPS gains valuable ideas and wide-ranging viewpoints that inform our analyses and policy recommendations.
