

AI and Digital Transformation for Public Policy Leaders

Artificial intelligence (AI) is reshaping how governments serve citizens, manage economies, and compete on the global stage. Yet most senior public sector leaders lack the strategic frameworks, policy knowledge, and governance tools to lead this transformation with confidence.

The AI and Digital Transformation for Public Policy Leaders executive programme empowers public sector leaders to confidently navigate the evolving landscape of AI and digital innovation. By combining technology insights with policy and governance perspectives, the programme helps leaders manage risks, support responsible adoption, and drive transformative outcomes for government, citizens, and society.

Beyond insights from public sector's perspectives, participants will also have opportunities to engage and gain insights into how private sector organisations such as AI Singapore, GovTech, Microsoft, Google, and Amazon are leveraging AI to accelerate digital transformation, strengthen governance, and create impact across the public sector.

WHO SHOULD COME

- Mid- to senior-level government officials responsible for national or organisational digital transformation, AI strategy, or public sector innovation
- Leaders of government technology agencies, digital offices, and data authorities
- Senior executives in state-owned enterprises or public agencies exploring AI deployment across operations and industries
- Anyone who seeks to gain strategic insights into AI and Digital Transformation for the public sector.
